

Alexis POKROVSKY

Senior Lecturer

Research themes

Innovation and entrepreneurship
Spatial and urban economics
Health management

Professional career of Alexis Pokrovsky

Alexis Pokrovsky defended a thesis in management sciences in 2016 at the University of Paris Saclay questioning the role that new forms of spatial organization play in entrepreneurial and social innovation. His research themes thus cover how spatial practices can shape, orient or determine the strategic and organizational choices of firms in their environment.

Previously, he worked for nearly 20 years in financial functions within the operational divisions of large international groups. In particular, he worked as a zone financial director and led international tenders in the services sector.

+ CV Alexis Pokrovsky

Publications et travaux scientifiques

Données extraites du portail HAL

Coordonnées

alexis.pokrovsky@lecnam.net

